Hearing Set For Sugar Allotments

The U. S. Department of Agriculture announced that an informal public hearing will be held May 10, 1967, in Miami Beach, to receive views and recommendations with respect to establishing farm proportionate shares (acreage allotments) for the 1968 sugarcane crop in the Mainland Cane Sugar Area, Florida and Louisiana.

The hearing will begin at 9 a. m. at the Casablanca Hotel.

Sugar production from the restricted 1966 crop amounted to 1,214,000 tons, consisting of 562,000 and 652,000 tons, raw value, respectively, in Louisiana and Florida. The total production exceeded that of the 1965 crop by 110,000 tons although grown on approximately the same level of acreage. The Jan. 1, 1967, effective inventory (sugar on hand plus production after the first of the year from the 1966 crop) was 782,000 tons, or 114,000 tons more than a year earlier.

Production from the restricted 1967 crop is expected to exceed the 1967 marketing quota for the area by 75,000 to 100,000 tons. Thus, the effective inventory on Jan. 1, 1968, is currently expected to be in the order of $50,000 tons or slightly higher. This would be equal to about three-quarters of that year's quota.

To avoid a further accumulation of sugar supplies in excess of quota and carryover requirements, careful consideration must be given to the acreage which may be provided within proportionate shares for the 1968 crop.

Marketing of sugarcane for the production of sugar from acreages within "individual farm shares" is one of the conditions producers must meet to qualify for Sugar Act payments.

Views and recommendations of interested persons are desired at the hearing on all matters relating to establishment of proportionate shares.

Farm Worker Under NLRA Ministry Aim

The Florida Christian Migrant Ministry in its recent annual meeting at Camp Wingman in Avon Park set "inclusion of farm workers under the provisions of the National Labor Relations Act" as its number one legislative goal. This would materially assist the current efforts of organized labor to unite workers engaged in agricultural harvesting.

Other legislative recommendations adopted by the group include Federal minimum wage coverage for all seasonal and migratory workers, protection of domestic farm workers against the adverse effects of importation of offshore labor, and coverage of farm workers by workmen's compensation and unemployment compensation insurance.

The Migrant Ministry adopted a policy statement which, in part: "The ever-changing patterns of agribusiness, as well as the organization of workers, coverage under the minimum wage law and the decreasing availability of foreign labor point out the serious patterns of adjustment for agricultural employers. There is little doubt that such changes will be painful to many and may cause some to leave farming."

Glades Pioneers Honored Sunday

Seeking to show appreciation to the pioneers of the Glades area, the Community Methodist Church dedicated a living tribute, "The Pioneer Courtyard," Sunday.

The ceremonies Sunday were attended by about fifty who came to the Glades before 1940.

"The courtyard is dedicated to the glory of God, and in honor of those early pioneers of the Glades, who by their tireless faith and the grace of God established and maintained our first churches," said Larry Royal, Chairman of the Board of Trustees.

L. E. Will, a noted historian of the Glades and a pioneer himself, spoke in behalf of the Glades pioneers.

"Things are not as rough here as they used to be," Will said.

Walter Hooker, Belle Glade, Jim Beardsley, Clewiston, and Mrs. Myrtle Armstrong Johnson, Pahokee, were among the "oldtimers" who spoke of the first Sunday Schools and Church services that were held in hotels, homes, and under the trees.

The church published a booklet, "Our Christian Heritage," edited by Sara Lee Creech and illustrated by Madeline Martin. This work is a collection of remembrances of the pioneers of this area.

Arriving in the Glades in 1912, Mrs. Ross Winnie was the earliest pioneer attending the Sunday services. Other were:

1914: Myrtle Armstrong Johnson, Jim Beardsley and Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Padgett.

1915: Dr. and Mrs. L. W. Armstrong.

1916: Vernice Boots.

1917: Vernon L. Jones, Uelba J. Bury and Mr. and Mrs. V. L. Jones.

1918: Mr. and Mrs. John Cowart and Mrs. Ruth Stein.

Harvest Active Over the State

Harvest was quick active over the State the week ended April 29.

Shipments of vegetables, excluding melons and berries, increased 12 percent, according to G. N. Rose of the Florida Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

The week continued dry but rainfall was reported at Live Oak, Lake City, Jacksonville, and showers north and east of Gainesville ranged from 1/4 to almost 2 inches. South of these points, little if any measurable rainfall was reported.

Harvest is nearing completion along the Lower East Coast, is in volume supply in the Ft. Pierce, Everglades and Immokalee areas, and is increasing northward. A cold front brought in cool, dry, windy weather on Thursday with temperatures at week's end well below normal in all but the extreme south. Maturity is probably slowed. Quality is very good. Plants are almost disease-free.

Sweet corn shipments at 693 carloads were a 44 percent increase over the previous week with volume supplies now coming from the Everglades. Crops might have slowed maturity in the Everglades but the Zellwood crop, almost completely planted, is making favorable progress. Zellwood corn has not been set back by any severe weather and moisture is ample by irrigation; light early harvest is expected the third week of May.

Snap bean shipments increased more than was expected. Plantings were well spaced but maturity was earlier on some varieties than others, making harvest heavy. Decreasing supplies are expected as the few left for harvest in the Everglades for fresh and processing, for fresh market at Plant City (both pole and bush) and is increasing in North Florida. A few pole beans may even be picked in Gadsden County this week.

Leaf crops now center primarily in the Zellwood area. Radishes continue from all producing areas and carrots of good quality, consumer-packaged, are available at Zellwood. Squash are harvesting primarily in the Plant City and North Florida areas, and most varieties are available. Arum squashes are coming from the Immokalee area.

Water Shortage

A probable shortage of irrigation water in a 300-square-mile area south of Lake Okechobee has been averted with the postponement of repair work to hurricane force 3, it was announced today by the Central and Southern Florida Flood Control District.

The Army Corps and Engineers has agreed to defer plans to shut the gates on the Miami Canal for repairs until after the vegetable growing season, following a request from local interests and the 18-county FCD. The Army had planned to close the gate to navigation for "dewatering and underwater repairs" during the period of May 17 to June 9.

It would also have cut off irrigation supplies from Lake Okechobee to the Miami Canal during the height of the vegetable growing season.

The gate maintenance work will be postponed until the period of July 19 to August 15, it was announced.

Plans to repair a boat lock at Moore Haven near the west shore of Lake Okechobee, remain unchanged, and the lock will be closed to navigation from June 12 to July 17.

LANES

A road, a road! What we wouldn't give for a road! A four lane road, that is what we need. It just might come to the Glades via Air Port Road, or Hooker Highway, or Vinegar Bend. It doesn't matter. Let the pros' decide that point, as long as they decide that the road comes to the Glades. The price we are paying and will continue to pay would demand a four lane road yesterday. We don't have it today. We all should work for construction to start tomorrow, at the latest.

Tung Chi-ping, a former member of the diplomatic corps of Communist China, stated recently in a Reader's Digest institutional message: "During my two years in the Civic Pride ?

Junior High School students, elected by the student body to a mock city council, are concerned about Belle Glade problems.

"It has been noticed by the students of Belle Glade Junior High School that the area south of the Chamber of Commerce and north of the Chevrolet Building is in deplorable condition." The council said in a letter to the Belle Glade City Commission.

What can be done about such spots?

These students are asking a good question. Part of the answer lies in the fact that city government is limited in its power to order the lot cleaned.

But, perhaps a fuller answer would also be an answer to the question, "Where is individual civic pride?"

The answer to this question rests with the individual responsible, not the city government. Why can't something be done? Perhaps someone will volunteer to face these young people and give THEM an answer. They won't be easily satisfied.

Perhaps we ought to ask the question of ourselves first, and then do something. After all, actions speak louder than words.

United States I have come to believe that the sense of individual worth is one of the strongest qualities that Americans possess."

HELPING OTHERS

Through the proclamations and speeches associated with the inter-American meeting at Punta del Este already are fading from memory here in North America, it is hard — if not impossible — to forget some of the angry demands voiced by Latin meetings at that conference. The President of Ecuador, for example, was especially bitter towards the United States for not giving more money to the countries of South America.

Ironically, much the same kind of bitterness is heard on the home front from those who want the federal government to escalate the war on Poverty.

Spokenmen for radical groups and political action groups in slum areas angrily condemn their fellow citizens for not pouring more money into social uplift schemes. They suggest — almost threaten — that violence is just around the corner if the money is not provided forthwith.

It is time the people of this world, both abroad and at home, get over the idea that they are wards of the United States. Citizens, the productive citizens of the USA don't have an obligation to subsidize the jobs at home who make careers of being drones, not to help other nations that won't help themselves. with subsidized housing, penalized health care, and numerous other federal benefits. They intend to use their votes to compel handouts.

The only answer to this problem is a more realistic, determined attitude on the part of gainfully employed blue-collar and white-collar Americans who pay this nation's tax bills.

The productive citizens can't be rebuffed to give their tribute to the non-workers in our society.

Spokenmen for the slum populations say that their clients can't get work. This isn't true. American newspapers always are publishing want ads.

Employers seek help. It's true that the advertisements are not all for computer programmers or for operators of data processing equipment. Many jobs that are open are for hard physical labor, but there is plenty of work to be done in any society.

Many Americans who today have good, high-paying jobs are the children or grand children of those who held down hard, unskipping jobs. When an individual or a people want to go up in a free society, it is necessary to begin at the bottom.

If you think you got red tape troubles, Mister Editor? I ain't saw but one item out of Washington this week that I could understand. This item said the Veterans Administration had 29,700,000 names on file and they had completed a study to see which was the most common names in this country. They run in this order:

(1) Smith, (2) Johnson, (3) Williams, (4) Jones, (5) Brown, (6) Miller, (7) Davis, (8) Anderson, (9) Wilson, (10) Thompson.

I was a little surprised, Mister Editor, that Jones and Brown wasn't running in the two and three spots, but the Veterans Administration has spoke.

And speaking of Government red tape once more, I was reading where a "White House spokesman" said the "destruction of the Viet Cong infrastructure was succeeding." If anything in Viet Nam was succeeding I wanted to know about it so I went over to Ed Doolittle's house to look in his dictionary and see what "infrastructure" meant. It wasn't in Ed's dictionary and I still don't know what we've got over there that was succeeding.

When you get through with your Zip Code chores this week and get your papers sacked up east and west, please find out what "infrastructure" means so I can tell the fellers at the store Saturday night about our new success.

Law Days Time For Rededication

(Reprinted from the FBI Law Enforcement Bulletin)

A NOTED AMERICAN PHILOSOPHER once observed, "Every form of government tends to perish by excess of its basic principle." And history bears him out. The decay of a republic begins when its citizens turn liberty into license, responsible freedom into irresponsible indulgence, respect for law into defiant disobedience, and indignation concerning into apathetic indifference.

This decay certainly cannot exist in an open society which is governed by an informed, moral, and energetic citizenry. It can and will exist in the United States if we refuse to face the total picture behind the facts and figures and continually find naive excuses for deliberate acts of greed, lust, and avarice.

When we remember there is a murder every hour in the United States, let us also remember the heartless apathy of those who do not want to get "involved"; when we read there is a forcible rape every 21 minutes, let us also recall the hoodlum who is judicially tapped on the wrist and allowed to return to the streets; when we remember there is a robbery every 4 minutes and a burglary every 25 seconds, let us also think of the hard-working citizens who are forced to close their businesses because of repeated criminal acts against their private property; and when we try to visualize the suffering caused by the more than 3 million serious crimes last year, let us understand that volume of misery is borne by hundreds of thousands of human victims and their families.

Law enforcement is a relatively easy job in a totalitarian country. There, the law is what a few people in power say is, and police may "legally" do any act which will sustain the ruling group or further its policies. In a democracy, law enforcement is a tremendously difficult and an increasingly complex task, operating in the total range of human conduct, yet subject to the delicate balance between individual freedom and community security.

The framework of our government did not just "happen"; it grew from blood, sweat, and tears. Nor were the Constitution, the Bill of Rights, and the Declaration of Independence produced from the chance scribbles of men practicing part-time citizenship. Never before in history was a nation blessed with more talented men exercising such fantastic intellectual precision in formulating basic tenets which guarantee freedom under law.

Law Day, USA, is indeed a time for rededication to the principles which make freedom under law possible. May 1, 1967, is the 10th anniversary of this special day which has been set aside by the Congress and the President to remind all Americans of their magnificent heritage.

The theme of Law Day, USA, "No man is above the law, and no man is below it," is particularly apropos for Law enforcement, which must insist that any violation of law be promptly and impartially investigated without apology to anyone, regardless of who or what may be involved.

Our commitment to the principle that all men are created equal demands no one be below the law; and let those who seek to be above the law know that their schemes will be defeated and exposed by a vigilant law enforcement profession.

JOHN EDGAR HOOVER, Director.

Uncle Dan from Doolie Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

I was telling you here a while back about that country editor in North Carolina that was getting overworked with red tape from the Post Office Department.

Well, I found out yesterday that you country editors ain't even got in the mainstream of Government red tape. This Washington column writer said he got a news item from the U. S. Civil Service Commission. I copied the news item down for my little piece this week and here it is:

"The United States Civil Service Commission announces the cancellation of Amendment No. 2 to Announcement No. DE-27-19 for identification and commission verifier W-7 issued Feb. 27, 1967."

"Receipt of applications for this examination was suspended until further notice effective Feb. 6, 1967, as a result of an amendment issued Jan. 23, 1967."

This column writer said he gave the news item to Senator Dirksen and ask him if he would get in touch with the Civil Service Commission and find out what they was trying to announce.

He got the word back that they was going to hold an examination for a clerk but was announcing it had been called off.

I ain't saw but one item out of Washington this week that I could understand. This item said the Veterans Administration had 29,700,000 names on file and they had completed a study to see which was the most common names in this country. They run in this order:

Changes Major in Hospital

By Ben Clarke, Administrator

Glades General Hospital

Anyone who has spent some time in a hospital or has paid bills incurred by a stay in the hospital does not need to be reminded that "hospitalization is costly these days."

The hospital administrator is now aware of this, and he has evidence that the cost of operating a hospital is considerably higher than it was a decade ago.

Hospitals have long been under pressure from the public to offer more service, install the latest equipment available to medical science, bring in highly skilled technicians and nurses, and make available to the modern comforts for high quality patient care. Always sensitive to the public's voice, hospitals have attempted to meet such demands despite severe budgetary limitations.

Extended hospitalization service results in additional hospital personnel — technicians to operate the sophisticated life-saving equipment, nurses to improve the quality of patient care, maintenance men and housekeepers.

The modern hospital as we know it today has undergone major changes in service since World War II. In 1946, half of the Twentieth Century hospital emerged from its historical status as a place of custodial care to an institution of cure. Concurrent to this changing role of the hospital was the revolutionary advancement of medical science.

But as the modern hospital developed, so did its need for highly trained and educated and highly skilled personnel to bring to the patient the new procedures, techniques, and equipment of modern medicine. Unfortunately, hospitals found themselves at a marked disadvantage in the recruitment and retention of "new breed" of personnel required to staff the modern hospital.

At the close of World War II industry wages were nearly double those paid in hospitals and in most areas hospitals were drawing from the bottom of the labor pool. In 1946 the average annual wage of the hospital employee lagged by 97 per cent when compared to industry. By 1961 this gap had narrowed to 31 per cent. With the current wave of hospital salary and wage increases, precipitated in part by the stand of professional nurses whose salaries had fallen behind the hospital wage scale is beginning to approach the level of industry wages. And as this wage gap closes hospitals will be able to compete successfully for the skilled labor people in the community.

However, hospitals continue to be criticized for the rapidly increasing costs of hospitalization. It is not likely that this upward trend on hospital costs will suddenly reverse. Since nearly two-thirds of the hospital's operating costs are paid in wages and salaries cost increases can be expected as long as hospitals pay more and more dollars for skilled help to provide the best in patient care.

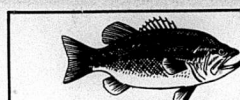

The impact on wage costs on hospital costs is magnified because of the nature of hospital service — a person-person service. This allows little opportunity for mechanization and automation of hospital work. Since World War II general industry has been able to increase productivity by about three per cent each year.

This increased productivity provided a buffer by which general industry could absorb a large portion of the cost increases granted and to that extent not disturb their costs of an amended cost.

Hospitals, lacking the opportunity to increase productivity, must still match whatever wage increases granted, and the inevitable consequences of this impact on the rates paid by the community for hospital prepayment plans.

There are those who have shouted "irresponsible" when hospitals have called attention to their limitations in controlling the upward spiral of hospital costs. Hospitals could be accused of being "irresponsible" if they failed to inform the public of the heavy impact that wages have on hospital costs, and the inevitable consequences of this impact on the rates paid by the community for hospital prepayment plans.

Florida Presbyterian College, St. Petersburg, was the first college to offer a course taught by a professor from every field of study which each student takes every year.

ROGATION SUNDAY

Rogations Sunday was celebrated by the Church of Saint John the Apostle at the Marina Sunday, Rev. Paul L. Thompson blessed the fruits of the soil, following rites dating back to 470.

Read Mark 10: 35-45
He riseth from supper, and laid aside his garments; and took a towel, and girded (John 13:4)
As in New Testament days, the worshippers removed their dusty sandals outside a small church in Pakistan and took their seats on the straw mats inside. It was Maundy Thursday, and the little community of Christians had come to celebrate the Lord's Supper.

The pastor of the church knew that his people were not ready to partake of the Supper. Jealousy and pride in his little flock had separated the members into two opposing factions. We all sat waiting for the drama of worship to begin. We were shocked when the pastor took a towel and a basin of water and went around the group pouring water over each worshiper's feet and wiping them with a towel. Not a word was spoken; but Pakistani and missionary, old and young, literate and illiterate, poor and not-so-poor felt the deep impact of a sermon without words. Only then were we cleansed spiritually so that we could share as a united worshipping community in the taking of bread and wine.

PRAYER Our Father, we thank Thee for the life and example of Jesus Christ. Help us to admit Him into our hearts that we can take up the towel of humility to wipe away jealousy and pride from our lives and the lives of others. In His name. Amen.

Costly To Learn

By Lewis Llewellyn
An internationally famous labor leader, a congressman from Harlem, and a senator from Connecticut might all find a certain verse of Scripture instructive — though it is perhaps a little late for it to be of much benefit to them. The three men, dissimilar in many ways, are alike in that they have all recently learned that punishment for misdeeds is certain, though it be long delayed. DID NOT ESCAPE The labor leader, who seemed for many years to be beyond the reach of the law, is now behind bars. The congressman, who openly advocated "audacious power," does not appear to be so audacious, as he sits powerless at the End of the World bar, not even daring to go to the church of which he is surprisingly still the pastor. The senator seems a rather pitiable figure, his financial manipulations having been laid bare to the gaze of the world. WARNING "Be sure your sin will find you out," the Bible warns. The warning should be heeded by those who are continuing to do those things which they know to be wrong, in the hope that they can "get away with it."

Se vio la necesidad de acabar con el filibusterismo para evitar sangrientas guerras.

Mas adelante hubo gobiernos y tiranias por lo que surgieron grandes luchas, rebeliones e insurrecciones, en busca de justicia, y rebaja de tributo, no aspiraban a la independencia.

Hubo tambien luchas y sublevaciones que se sostuvieron con los indios y salvajes en los siglos XVII y XVIII, que peleaban por su independencia, ahogadas siempre con mano de hierro por los virreyes, o por sus oficiales.

Previamente: Independencia Americana, la Revolucion y sus Caudillos.

History of America

COLONIZATION

Spain lost almost the totality of its colonies in America, which were emancipated in the use of their right and their strength.

Later on, the most powerful nation found the most fearful naval potencies were those of England, France and Holland. Also came the epoch of the pirates and corsairs who scourged incessantly the Pacific and Atlantic coasts. Important ports were attacked and pillaged, various forts were constructed for the defense of the coasts.

One of the most successful pirates was english Thomas Cavendish, Britain's popular hero, of whom poets sang his prowess. The Dutch Company of the Indies also performed great prowess of piracy. The Tortuga island was converted in a focus of pirates and buccanniers. There was war between England and Spain in 1654.

The french owned the Colony of Haiti, being supported by the court of Versailles in the XVII century. The french buccanniers fought, penetrating the spanish possession. And later on the spanish dominicans invaded the french property. Peace came forth with the advent of a french prince to the throne of Spain. The latter continued fighting against english, dutch and danish. Famous spanish corsairs were then formed, among whom stood out Gallardo, called king of the sea.

There was need to finish with the filibusterism to avoid bloody wars. Furthermore, there were governments and tyrannies which caused great fights, rebellions and insurrections, in search of justice and reducing of tributes, not aspiring to independence.

There were also fights and insurrections sustained with indians and savages in the XVII and XVIII centuries, fighting for their independence, suffocated always with iron hand by the viceroys or their officials.

Next: American Independence, the Revolution and its Leaders.

Drive the cost of living down, without giving up all this.

Chevrolet's room, ride and price. When Automotive News made its annual roominess study, Chevrolet got the most points. It's roomier inside, they reported, than any other American car. The ride is Full Coil suspension smooth. And Chevrolet hardtops and convertibles are still the lowest priced full-size cars of this kind you can buy. Chevrolet's quick size. It's quick to climb, quick to turn. Other mid-size cars might be like Chevelle, true. But they're not as low priced. And they're not made by Chevrolet with Body by Fisher. GM-developed energy-absorbing steering column, inner fenders and Full Coil suspension. Camaro's rear-hugging stance. At its price, Camaro is the only sportster to give you wide-stance design. It rides steadier, clings to curves better, hugs the road closer. It's the roomiest car you can buy. Plus, you get a bigger standard engine.

Mrs. Earwood, Teacher of Week

Belle Glade's art and Humanities teacher, Mrs. Margaret O. Earwood, participates in many other activities involving art.

Each year she is responsible for the student art show, and teachers oil painting in the adult education program. This class recently had a one-week showing at the Florida First National Bank.

She will take her best adult student work to the Norton Art Gallery in Palm Beach, where it will be displayed in the county art contest.

At school, she sponsors the student art club which this year presented outstanding art work in the National Scholastic Art Show in Miami.

Mrs. Earwood belongs to four art societies, the Palm Beach Art League, The Palm Beach Art Institute, Lake Worth Art League, and The Florida Federation of Art.

Born in Smith Mills, Ky., Mrs. Earwood attended school there until the seventh grade.

She then finished high school in Evansville, Ind. After high school she enrolled in Hamilton College for girls in Lexington, Ky., transferring to University of Indiana and receiving her B. S. from Stetson University, majoring in art with minors in Spanish and Social Studies.

Mrs. Earwood first taught in Crestview, Fla., where she met her husband, Henry O. Earwood, then a football coach. They lived in Crestview for nine years.

Mrs. Earwood has lived in Belle Glade for 25 years. When she and her husband first moved here he worked for the government on a labor program, holding a private art class in their home for eight years.

She began teaching in Palm Beach County in 1950.

Last summer she traveled widely in Europe with the W. C. Bamford and plans this summer to take art courses at University of Tennessee.

Juniors Visit P.B.J.C.

On May 4 the Junior Class attended "Junior College Visitation Day" at Palm Beach Junior College.

The purpose was to become acquainted with various colleges, vocational schools, and industries.

Among the colleges represented were the University of Florida, Princeton, Fisk, and Bethune-Cookman.

The students selected a college or vocation and met with representatives who gave them pertinent information on their particular areas. Entrance requirements, cost, courses offered and qualifications for vocations were discussed.

Track Team Wins Over Three

The Mighty Bobcat track team completed 76 points to win the track meet held in Glades, Florida. Carver High placed 2nd with 67 points, Kennedy grabbed 3rd place with 45 points while Gifford came in fourth with 37 points.

The girls were outstanding too, placing second with 48 points. Carver dominated first place with 55 points while Kennedy took third.

Academic Robbery Can Be Stopped

Technology is now available that would put a stop to "academic robbery," the penalty foisted upon transferring college students and manifested in credit and point losses and wasted time and money.

These losses occur when a student changes to a college that does not offer courses he has already passed, or when the college has no measuring stick for proficiency in subjects studied at other schools.

Dr. Paul Douglas in writes Dr. Paul Douglas in EDUCATION AGE magazine.

Dr. Douglas is a noted teacher, lawyer, administrator and writer, and is now Director of the Center for Practical Politics at Rollins College, Winter Park, Florida.

With one out of every 14 undergraduate college students transferring each year, available technologies must be used, for trends indicate that this figure is rising. Dr. Douglas believes. He points out that solutions to the complications of transferring are available in existing comprehensive tests such as those administered by the Educational Testing Service, Princeton, N. J., and in the development of others.

These can be effective measures of student competence and achievement, and at the same time overcome the variety of semester, tri-semester and quarter grading systems now being used in most institutions.

Transferring students would take broad and comparative ETS tests of undergraduate achievement in the five basic liberal arts areas of English composition, the humanities, natural sciences and social science-history, under Dr. Douglas' plan. Scores on these tests would establish the student's profile of competence for the transfer institution's analysis.

For examinations in fields not available through ETS, Dr. Douglas believes the student and institution should work out together to schedule of exams through impartial agencies.

Transferring from one school to another should not

Kill this pellitory weed
in sugar cane.
Use Atrazine. Here's how:

When you see pellitory weed starting to grow, apply Atrazine 80W herbicide, plus a little surfactant. You'll clean out infestations of this winter annual fast and effectively... without hurting cane.

Atrazine is safe to sugar cane. It will not injure your crop when you apply it as directed on the label. And since it's non-volatile, there's no danger of drift to adjacent, sensitive crops.

Even though Atrazine has proved to control pellitory at any stage of growth, early treatment assures best results. With pellitory under control early, you grow more sugar cane per acre.

That's because Atrazine prevents pellitory from interfering with sugar cane tillering. Also, Atrazine helps make soil moisture and nutrients available for your cane, and not for pellitory weed.

So plan now to grow the maximum tonnage of sugar cane from each acre you plant this season. Just use Atrazine to control pellitory weed this winter.

Housing Progress Is Planned

Chairman Louis Kirchman of the Housing Authority of the City of Belle Glade announced that further progress is being made toward developing plans for up grading and rehabilitating housing located at the Ocoola and Okeechobee Projects.

Following an announcement of a few weeks ago of their intentions to institute a study of this problem, Kirchman said "the board of Commissioners are making an analysis of several feasibility studies and surveys presently in progress both from a construction and engineering standpoint of housing problems on both Projects. We are," he said, looking at these problems from both a short and long range basis knowing that changes in the economy could require changes in the housing standard."

The Project was built in 1939 and opened in 1940 has over the years served the migrants influx in the Glades area. For sometime the board has held discussions considering different plans for up grading the housing, as replacement becomes necessary.

Much detail is going into the study to insure that every face of the problems will be satisfactorily covered.
